

Thoughts about the Human quest

As there is a way to close the eyes there isn't a way to close the ears

The eyes and ears are the main messengers from the outer world to our brain and they activate our main enemy, the mouth. The more our ears, eyes and mouth are closed the better.

We receive and comprehend fragments of reality, limited by our senses and translations abilities the world around us reveals itself as flow of images colors and forms but it is all illusion a mind mix of memories, emotions thoughts and automated actions that has little to do with reality.

Life is not a linear line as the real human body is not linear form. The human body manifests itself in a luminous, colorful vibrating egg shape entity and doesn't end in the skin, as our thoughts doesn't end in the brain, we can be in the heart of a distant galaxy with our minds. The power of the mind has no borders or limitations it travels faster than the speed of light and can move and inspire people in the other side of the globe without moving from a chair.

Physical bodies are but the vehicles and custodians of a pure human essence that can be called the spirit which is what remains after the body is recycled into Planet Earth, but the physical body is what humanity cherishes. The great religions caused more casualties in their race for truth than any planetary disaster.

Pondering on those subjects requires muting outer impressions, eyes, ears and mouth should be closed. Then something else could open, new reality and insights can emerge and transcend on relaxed non-active vehicle of the spirit.

New ideas are not linear but like colorful dots surrounds the mind and when shaped leaves as writings or verbal expression. The music of the spirit is harmonious and doesn't need translation.

Human minds are the dots or the idea seeds of much greater entity that unites us all it can be called the creation force, God or Buddha, the name doesn't matter. Active dots around the planet interact unconsciously. This is the real human quest to find the right rhythm and tune that would make us all united.

Have magic

Ted Barr, January 2016